Uys calls for selfish voting

COMEDIAN and satirist Pieter-Dirk Uys yesterday urged South Africans to be selfish when they cast their votes in the upcoming general elections on May 7.

“We are seeing this election in the wrong way. People are saying your vote is for Madiba, for your community. Your vote is for your country.

“No! Your vote is for you. It’s the most selfish thing you are allowed. It’s about your life. It’s about your future. So be selfish on the seventh of May.”

Uys was speaking at the University of KwaZulu-Natal’s graduation ceremony where he received an honorary degree.
